

LOCAL

NEW YORK · NOVEMBER 8, 2019 7:43 PM

Art Against Opioids

Artist Domenic Esposito is known for his giant sculptures, particularly his massive opioid spoons that he places in front of drug companies he blames for the opioid crisis. One of these sculptures is now coming to a new recovery center in Chelsea — not as a sign of protest, but to draw attention to the crisis and its victims. Jamie Roth has the story. Read Less

More As Seen On Videos